ⓘ Please be assured that all students enrolled in a Lecture will be accommodated in a practical. The number of practicals currently open in some Fall/Winter courses do not accommodate all students presently enrolled in them. This is deliberate because enrolment patterns change between now and the start of the term. When the term starts, if necessary, we will open additional practicals to accommodate the students enrolled in the course at that time.

For changes to BIOA02H3S practicals after the last date to add a course, please email Jennifer Campbell jac.campbell@utoronto.ca

> ⓘ All CHMB41H3 FALL PRACTICALS & TUTORIALS WILL BE CLOSED AS OF 3:00 pm on Friday, Jan 12th
> Odd Labs and tutorials will start the week of Jan 15th and and even labs and tutorials will start the week of Jan 22nd.
> Please email Dr.Shadi Dalili at sh.dalili@utoronto.ca if you need to add or change your practical after Jan 12th.
> This course has Facilitated Study Groups. For more information, please Click Here

The course includes tutorials and a four-hour laboratory every other week. Students are required to register for both a practical and tutorial section.

Please be assured that all students enrolled in a Lecture will be accommodated in a practical/tutorial. The number of practicals/tutorials currently open in some Fall/Winter courses does not accommodate all students presently enrolled in them. This is deliberate because enrolment patterns change between registration dates and the start of the term. When the term starts, if necessary, we will open additional practicals/tutorials to accommodate the students enrolled in the course at that time.

261. ENGD53H3S (2024 Winter) - Studies in Popular Genres

ⓘ Happily Ever After: The Romance Novel since Jane Austen The least critically examined literary genre, the romance novel, is also the most popular, and its popularity has only continued to grow over the past decade, in the wake of BookTok, the pandemic, fanfic, and the worldwide success of online publishing platforms such as WattPad and Episode. In the first two thirds of the course, we will examine the history of the genre in English, and will engage with a variety of theories and methods for the study of the romance novel as we try to account for its enduring popularity, and why the genre is both loved and reviled. In the final third of the course, readings and projects will focus on recent developments in the genre, such as increasing diversity of authors and protagonists, new media, and the changing nature of the happy ending.

793. THRC15H3S (2024 Winter) - Special Topics in Performance

THEATRES OF THE REAL
This course explores theatre practices that respond to our contemporary yearning for reality and authenticity

In our age of social media and artificial intelligence, it is becoming increasingly difficult to distinguish what is "authentic" from what is "fake," what is "real" from what is simulation. As a result, our hunger for reality and for uncovering and finding the "real thing" only seems to grow. In this course, we will explore theatre practices that respond to this yearning by making real people, real words, real places or real experiences central to their dramaturgies or performance/scenic strategies.

Our investigation will include various modes and styles of performance known as documentary, verbatim, testimonial, site-specific, immersive and postdramatic theatre, among others. Through various cases studies, we will 'dig' into the performance histories, contexts and creation methods of "theatres of the real" from across the Americas. As we read, view, witness, analyze and creatively engage these performances, we will be paying particular attention to the relationship between aesthetics and ethics, theatre and entertainment, political critique and civic participation.

815. VPHD48H3S (2024 Winter) - Advanced Seminar in Art History and Visual Culture

> ℹ️ Doing Art History in post-historical times This seminar examines the centrality of time in the making, viewing, and critiquing of visual arts. The 21st century, with its increasing environmental, political, and economic challenges demands a different relationship to time and its passing. How does one rethink and re-configure the questions of art history when time is no longer understood as linear, chronological, universal, or progressive? Does an artwork have its own temporal signature? Readings drawn from art history, anthropology, and critical theory address questions of nostalgia, hetero-temporalities, memory work, futurism and utopia, anachronisms, and archival afterlives.
